DESCRIPTION

- 7a. Architectural style: Vernacular Cabin
- 7b. Briefly describe the present physical description of the site or structure and describe any major alterations from its original condition:

This one-story house has a center section with gabled ends and side additions with front facing gables. The rafters are exposed but the ends are concealed by a fascia board. The open gables have decoratively sawn barge boards. Windows are double hung and the front door has a lattice pattern. A small roof extension over the door is supported by sawn brackets. The wooden siding has an interesting rounded profile with alternating wide and narrow courses.

SIGNIFICANCE

19. Briefly state historical and/or architectural importance (include dates, events, and persons associated with the site.)

The siding and shake roof on this house hints at the idea of a log cabin, especially due to its setting on a wooded hill. It appears that the builder wanted a structure that would blend in with the semi-rustic setting. This cabin is located in the Fitch Mountain Resort area, subdivided for summer cabins in the late 1920's.
