DESCRIPTION

- 7a. Architectural style: Italianate
- 7b. Briefly describe the present physical description of the site or structure and describe any major alterations from its original condition:

A two-story, boxed shaped Italianate with a flat roof. The boxed cornice has a molded fascia board. The panelled frieze has four molded brackets on each side of the structure. Windows are double-hung with each sash having two panes. The windows are symmetrically placed with those of the upper story being directly above those on the first. Each window has a bracketed, molded hood. All of the siding is channel rustic. There are flat roofed porches in the front and back which are not quite identical though both have square posts, sawn brackets, and railings with simple balustrades.
